ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Courtney is a new children's author of the book There's a Dinosaur on the Farm. She has always loved writing but discovered her passion for children's books while working in an early childhood organisation. Seeing the excitement of children engaged in a story and watching their imagination run wild inspired her to create stories of her own.

Courtney loves to spend time on the family farm watching her son, nieces and nephews explore and play and squeeze in plenty of tractor rides! She wanted to share the fun and adventure of being on the farm with other children.

A CONVERSATION WITH THE AUTHOR

WHAT DREW YOU TO WRITING THERE'S A DINOSAUR ON THE FARM!

My in-laws have a vegetable and cattle farm at Clintonvale, Queensland. I love the calming feeling of being farm on the farm and watching the excitement of my little boy and his cousins, exploring and playing on the farm. The story focuses on my son Albert and his grandparents and tells the story of an adventure they have on the farm when they find footprints in a paddock. They have a number of animals visit their vegetables and so I thought, why not a dinosaur?

WHEN DID YOU FIRST REALISE YOU WANTED TO WRITE?

I have always loved reading and as a child would often write down my ideas for stories. That's usually where the ideas stayed but I decided recently to start making time to write.
